

7. Should I stop any of my medications before going into hospital for surgery?

Depending upon the reason for your hospital admission, it may be advisable for you to temporarily stop some or all of your treatment. However you should continue to take all prescribed medication unless specifically advised to do otherwise.

Our staff will advise you if you are in any doubt.

Anti-TNF treatment should be stopped for two weeks pre surgery and until the wound is healed post operatively. A blood test will be required before restarting your treatment.
